

Luxury tours in outback Oz

IF YOU think indigenous tourism only means roughing it in the outback, Bookabee Tours Australia can let you in on a secret... indigenous luxury.

The South Australian company admits the Aboriginal experience isn't usually equated with luxury.

"We offer an Aboriginal experience second to none," said owner-operator Haydyn Bromley.

"And while there are other mainstream operators out there running Aboriginal tours, we do it in style."

Haydyn, from the Adnyamathanha tribe in the northern Flinders Ranges, named the business after his grandfather.

The addition of luxury accommodation and chauffeur driven, top-of-the-range 4WDs ensures a five-star holiday.

Haydyn draws on his own knowledge and skills learned early in life and can tailor an experience to suit a couple or a small group.

ANCIENT ART – Hayden Bromley points out the art of his ancestors and relates the stories handed down by his grandfather, Bookabee.

Those taking the tours experience first-hand the stories of the region passed to Haydyn by his grandfather.

Bookabee Tours Australia was the South Australia winner of the PublicityShip Hidden Jewel Awards 2007.

For information call (08) 8235-9954 or visit www.bookabee.com.au